

Some see a structure

Made of mortar and stone
But for many this building
Takes on a life of its own

It starts with a journey
Back into the past
Then walks through the memories
That seem to go by too fast

Built at a time
When work was so hard to find
It's unique craftsmanship
Made it one of a kind...

Stones brought in from fields
And placed carefully on each wall
Of this monumental building
That we know as "the hall"

If these walls could tell stories
They'd have so much to say
Of the memories that have been made here
And still are today

Graduations, weddings and gathering
Meetings, movies and big bands
History, skating, ball games and plays
Fund raisers to lend a hand

So many things have happened here
In this place where we have celebrated and we've prayed
And though things change as years go by
The strength of community has always stayed

For years ago, they came together
To build this structure where we stand
Though times were hard and jobs were few
Together, a community did band

And today this hall's still standing
Though it may be a little worn for wear
It's served its purpose proudly
As it did for our forebear

And just as our history tells our story
This building tells one too
For the memories etched within these walls
Remind us that not everything grand is new....

Celebrating 86 years of history..
86 years of memories made one by one
And a story of a grand old hall
Whose time is not yet done.....DG
